Dear Mr. Goodwin:

I am addressing this letter to you in care of your publishers and hope they will send it to you.

Your book GREENBACK received [redacted] excellent reviews and I congratulate you on its appealing [redacted] qualities. You have enlivened numismatics and economics [redacted] into entertainment.

PP Since you cite my work [redacted] on the # sign and [redacted] other studies that I have written I feel I can ask you to help me find out when the £ sign was [redacted] first used. A book by David Sinclair entitled THE POUND (London 2000) was published [redacted] and that fact was not included. I have no way of contacting the author who is English and wonder if you know his [redacted] whereabouts or the answer to my question.

[redacted] pictures of American numismatic pieces [redacted] for further writing or American numismatic literature we have large holdings. [redacted] I am a research technical writer so you realize but [redacted] enjoyed your book immensely. Keep writing. Thanks.

Sincerely
